Hillary Clinton Holds a Commanding Lead with Superdelegates

Democratic Delegates

Superdelegates who:

- Support Clinton (469)
- Support Sanders (31)
- Remain uncommitted/Did not Respond (212)

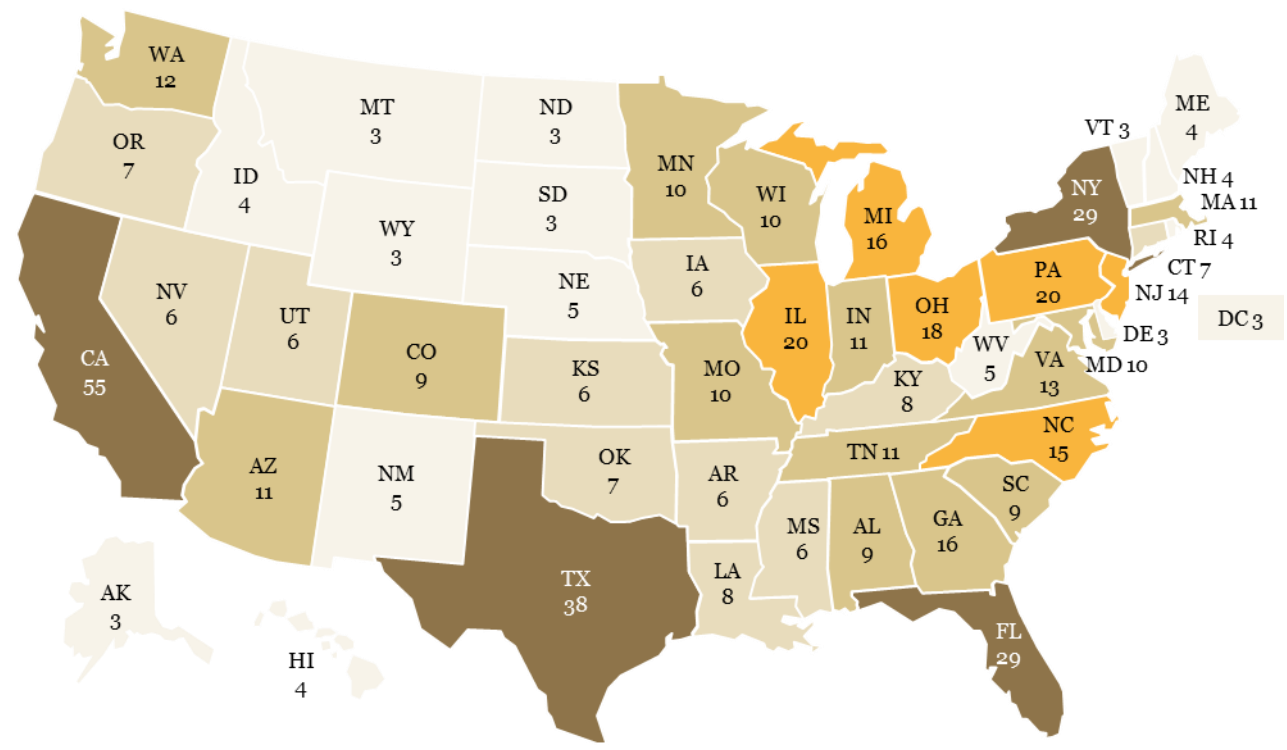

- Superdelegates are Democratic convention delegates, most often elected officials or party officials, can support any candidate regardless of the outcome of the states' primaries and caucuses
- Superdelegates constitute about 30% of the delegates necessary to win the Democratic nomination
- About 66% of the superdelegates currently support Clinton
- In 2008, Hillary Clinton also maintained a large superdelegate lead prior to Super Tuesday; despite this advantage, she lost the Democratic nomination to Barack Obama

California, Texas, Florida and New York Hold Large Electoral Power

Number of Electoral Votes Per State

3-5 6-8 9-13 14-25 26-55

Analysis

- The Electoral College consists of 538 electors, and a majority of 270 electoral votes is needed to elect a President.
- Each state's electors is determined by the number of Representatives and an additional two for the Senators.
- Except for Maine and Nebraska, states have a "winner-take-all" system which allots all the electoral votes in the state to the winning candidate

Based on Past Presidential Elections, Democrats May Hold a Slight Advantage Heading into 2016 General Election

States That Voted Consistently in the Past Six Presidential Elections

■ Voted Republican every election since 1992 ■ Voted Democratic every election since 1992

Share of Electoral Votes Historically Won by Democrats and Republicans since 1992

270 needed to win presidential election

Analysis

- Democrats won 18 states plus the District of Columbia six times in a row, which in 2016 would earn 242 electoral votes, about 90 percent of the 270 electoral votes needed to win.
- In contrast, Republicans consistently carried 13 states over the last six elections, which in 2016 would earn the party 102 electoral votes, 38 percent of the 270 needed to win.
- For more information on the political climate of the presidential primary, read Charlie Cook's analysis.

34 States Allow A Form of In-Person Early Voting

In-Person Early Voting Laws, by State

■ Early In-Person Voting ■ No Early In-Person Voting

Analysis

- 13 highlighted states do not legally have early voting but have “In-person absentee” voting, allowing a voter to apply in person for an absentee ballot, without an excuse, and cast that ballot in one trip to an election official’s office.

The Democratic Advantage: A Diversifying Electorate

Percentage of Voters in Past Presidential Elections by Race

■ Whites ■ Blacks ■ Hispanics ■ Asians

Analysis

- Democrats' hopes of holding the White House rest on remobilizing the Obama coalition of millennials, single women, and nonwhite voters
- Minorities are less likely to vote GOP; the trend of a diversifying electorate in recent elections is an advantage for Democrats

Sanders Rallies Support at Iowa Universities But Clinton’s Supporters Across the State Bring About a Tie

Iowa Democratic Presidential Caucuses Map, Results by County

Analysis

- Sanders pulled some of his biggest margins over Clinton in Story and Johnson counties the homes of Iowa’s two largest public universities.
- Six precincts resulted in a tie, in these cases the winner was determined by a coin toss as defined in Democratic party election rules. Clinton won all of these tosses, however this did not affect the overall outcome.

Iowa Photo Finish Between Clinton and Sanders Could Reflect Long Race Ahead; Young Voters Support Sanders

Key Takeaways from the 2016 Democratic Iowa Caucus

Democratic Result	Takeaways
Clinton ekes out win over Sanders in closest result in Iowa Democratic caucus history	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The close result shows that Sanders represents legitimate competition for Clinton, who held a 50 point lead over Sanders in Iowa polling six months ago</li> <li>Clinton’s ground game and data-driven organizational tactics in Iowa represented a strategic shift from her 2008 effort in the state</li> <li>Iowa was considered one of the best demographic states for Sanders – mostly white, and extremely liberal</li> <li>The same holds for New Hampshire, where Sanders will likely be the favorite to win the nation’s first primary</li> </ul>
Clinton captures ‘traditional’ and non-white votes	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The majority of Caucus goers were over 50; Clinton carried voters 65 and older by 43 points and Democrats who had caucused before by 24 points</li> <li>Clinton won non-white voters by 18 points in preliminary entrance polls; however non-white voters constituted only one-tenth of the Democratic electorate in Iowa</li> <li>If Clinton continues to garner a large lead among nonwhite voters, she will likely continue to be the favorite for the Democratic nomination</li> </ul>
Sanders captures ‘insurgent’ vote	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Enthusiasm for Sanders stems largely from first-time caucus goers and young voters (17-29 year olds); Young voters chose Sanders by a 6-1 ratio</li> </ul>

Analysis

- Clinton made a big 9-point win in Clark County: the most populous and most ethnically diverse county in the state.
- While he failed to capture the African American vote, Sanders bested Clinton among Latino caucus-goers, taking an estimated 53%. Latino caucus-goers were estimated to be 19% of the total caucus-goer population.
- Early estimates show that the caucuses received a low turnout with only 80,000 of the state's 470,000 registered democrats coming out to caucus.

Massachusetts Democratic Primary Produces a Nail-Biter, Clinton Edges Out Sanders Thanks to Boston

Massachusetts Dem. Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	600,041	50.1%	45
	Bernie Sanders	582,801	48.7%	43

Analysis

- Clinton leaned heavily on the diverse Boston metro area. She won the city proper by an estimate 16-point margin, but surrounding townships were significantly closer.
- Sanders had considerable support in the central and western portions of the state, winning by 30-point margins in several townships.
- The wealthier communities of the cape and eastern coasts were highly contested; many townships were decided within a 5-point margin.

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	536,250	71.2%	70
	Bernie Sanders	213,317	28.3%	28

Analysis

- As predicted, Hillary Clinton was called the winner as soon as the polls closed at 9 p.m. eastern time.
- According to the Pew Research Center, Texas has one of the largest Hispanic statewide eligible voter shares in the country and Bernie Sanders continues to struggle to gain traction with that voter base.

Virginia Paints a Picture of Larger Democratic Race, Clinton Popular With Minorities, Sanders with Rural Whites

Virginia Dem. Primary Results, by County and Municipality

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	504,376	64.3%	61
	Bernie Sanders	275,974	35.2%	32

Analysis

- Virginia serves as a microcosm of Clinton’s diverse support base. She scored landslide wins in the southern, African-American inhabited areas of the state. She also remained on top in the wealthier, White areas of Northern Virginia.
- Sanders struggled across the state, but did best in the poorer, Whiter western areas of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Valley.

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	115,634	86.1%	16
	Hillary Clinton	18,274	13.6%	0

Analysis

- Sanders dominated his home state of Vermont, winning across almost every demographic – 91% of men and 83% of women voted for Sanders.
- About half of the Democratic electorate in Vermont said that honesty was the most important quality – these votes almost unanimously went to Sanders.

Sources: Washington Post, "Super Tuesday state results"; Dave Green, "Vermont Exit Polls: Sanders Swamps Clinton Across Board."

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	26,450	67.7%	23
	Hillary Clinton	12,593	32.3%	10

Analysis

- Sanders enjoyed widespread support across the state, with his smallest lead being a 24-point win in the 3rd District comprised of the Kansas portion of Kansas City.
- Despite being a largely Republican state, liberal White voters who support what some call “prairie populism” helped provide a marginally higher turnout than the last caucuses held in 2008.

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	595,073	49.8%	68
	Hillary Clinton	576,723	48.3%	59

Analysis

- Bernie Sanders narrowly defeated Hillary Clinton in Michigan
- The polls leading up to the primary had Clinton ahead by double digits
- Sanders worked to win the delegate-heavy state by attacking Clinton’s policies on trade and her connection to Wall Street

Sources: CNN, “2016 Election Center: Michigan,” March 9, 2016; The Washington Post, “Michigan Primary Election Results,” Campaign 2016, March 9, 2016; US Census Michigan County Map, March 8, 2016; Manuela Tobias and Nolan D. Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
■	Hillary Clinton	182,282	82.6%	29
	Bernie Sanders	36,284	16.5%	4

Analysis

- Hillary Clinton continued her pattern of doing well in Southern states with high African American populations. In some counties she scored over 90 percent of the vote.
- Bernie Sanders was unable to gain more than 40% of the vote in any county across the state.

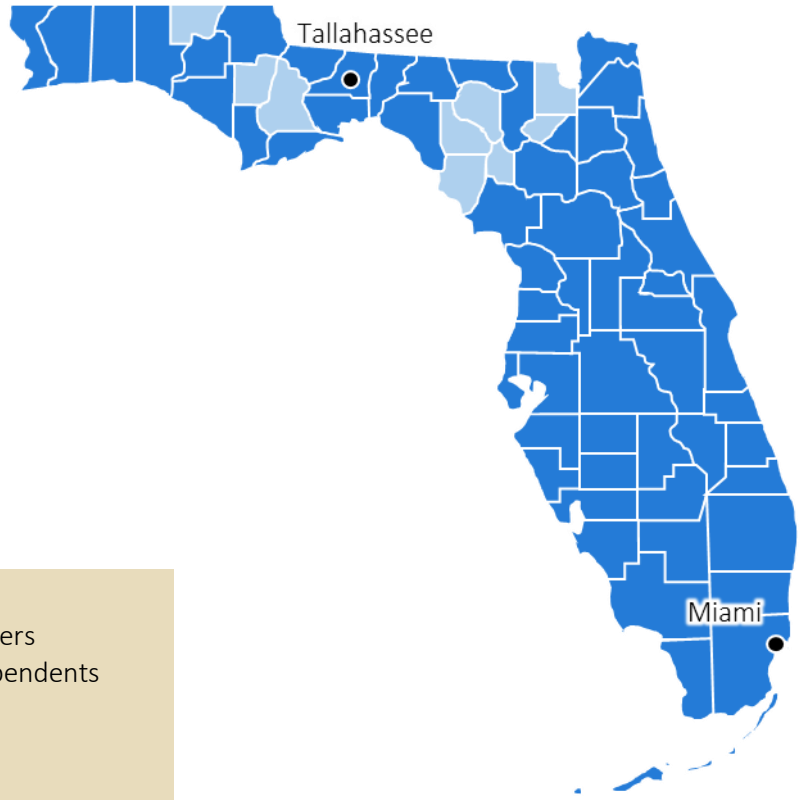

Sources: Wilson Andres, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers, and Tim Giratikanon, "Mississippi Primary Results," The New York Times, March 9, 2016

Clinton Rounds Out Her Sweep of the South With a Florida Win

Florida Dem. Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	1,094,289	64.5%	101
	Bernie Sanders	564,564	33.3%	51

Analysis

- Hillary Clinton wins over a majority of the votes in Florida over Bernie Sanders
- Clinton was expected to easily win Florida as the closed primary kept independents from participating in the polls

Sources: CNN, "Florida," 2016 Election Center, March 16, 2016; US Census Florida County Map, March 10, 2016; Laura Meckler and Colleen McCain Nelson, "Hillary Clinton Wins Four States, Adding to Delegate Lead," Wall Street Journal, March 16, 2016.

Ohio Started Close But Cleveland Brings it Home For Clinton

Ohio Dem. Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	679,266	56.5%	76
	Bernie Sanders	513,550	42.7%	57

Analysis

- Hillary Clinton was catapulted to the win thanks to Cuyahoga County, home of Cleveland. The county casted about 20% of the state’s votes and voted overwhelmingly for Clinton, 63-36.
- Clinton and Sanders remained close throughout most of the state, often posting margins within 10 points.

Sources: Wilson Andrews, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers and Tom Giratikanon, “New York Times Primary Results and Calendar,” The New York Times, March 16, 2016; Kevin Schaul and Samuel Granados, “US Primary Results by State,” Washington Post, March 16, 2016.

Clinton Finishes Her Southern Sweep With a Win in North Carolina

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	616,383	54.6%	59
	Bernie Sanders	460,316	40.8%	45

Analysis

- Bernie Sanders’ largest base of support was centered in the mountainous, western portion of the state, home to the Appalachian peaks.
- Hillary Clinton rose to the win with the help of African American voters in the central portion of the state.
- Sanders and Clinton remained close along the coast, posting tight margins.

Sources: Wilson Andrews, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers and Tom Giratikanon, “New York Times Primary Results and Calendar,” The New York Times, March 16, 2016; Kevin Schaul and Samuel Granados, “US Primary Results by State,” Washington Post, March 16, 2016.

Hillary Clinton Barely Wins in Illinois With Critical Support in Chicago Pushing Her Over the Threshold

Illinois Dem. Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	1,002,832	50.5%	68
	Bernie Sanders	968,227	48.7%	67

Analysis

- Hillary Clinton continued to gain majority support amongst black voters allowing her to win the critical Chicago vote, which propelled her to victory
- Although it was by a small margin, Sander's loss in in Clinton's childhood state blunted the momentum he had after his surprise win in Michigan.

Sources: U.S. Census Illinois County Maps; The New York Times, "Illinois Primary Results," March 16, 2016; Allan Rappeport, "Hillary Clinton Wins Illinois Primary," The New York Times, March 16, 2016.

Sanders Eligible For a Recount in Missouri, But Would Have Negligible Effect on Delegate Count

Missouri Dem. Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	310,602	49.6%	32
	Bernie Sanders	309,071	49.4%	32
	Tie

Analysis

- Missouri law states that a recount must be provided at the request of a candidate who has lost by less than half of one percentage point.
- Forcing a recount would, at most, give a win that's more symbolic than substantial. Since Democratic party delegates are allocated proportionally, a recount would most likely result in the same or an extremely similar delegate allocation.

Sources: Wilson Andrews, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers, and Tom Giratikanon, "Missouri Primary Results," The New York Times, March 17, 2016; Nicholas J.C. Pistor, "Potential Missouri Recount Process Could Take Months," St. Louis Post-Dispatch, March 17, 2016.

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Hillary Clinton	234,294	57.8%	41
	Bernie Sanders	160,933	39.7%	22

Analysis

- Hillary Clinton won in Arizona, the state in which she won in the 2008 primary
- Bernie Sanders had spent large amounts of money and time in Arizona in an attempt to win over voters, but he fell short on election day

	Bernie Sanders	52,185	79.7%	18
	Hillary Clinton	12,993	19.8%	5

 No precincts reporting.

Analysis

- Sanders posted big wins across the state, even winning Salt Lake City's county by over 50 points.
- Clinton was only able to garner more than 35% support in one county. (This was in Millard County, where only 25 votes were cast in total.)

Sources: Wilson Andres, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers, and Tim Giratikanon, "Utah Primary Results," The New York Times, March 23, 2016; The Washington Post "Utah Primary Election Results," March 23, 2016.

Idaho Dem. Caucuses Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	18,640	78.0%	17
	Hillary Clinton	5,065	21.2%	5

Analysis

- Sanders enjoyed support throughout the state, winning most counties by 30-40 point margins.
- Despite her single win in the panhandle, Clinton's base of support was consolidated along Idaho's southern border.

Sources: Wilson Andres, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers, and Tim Giratikanon, "Idaho Primary Results," The New York Times, March 23, 2016; The Washington Post "Idaho Primary Election Results," March 23, 2016.

Sanders Sweeps Washington State By Large Margin

Washington State Dem. Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes*	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	19,159	72.7%	74
	Hillary Clinton	7,140	27.1%	27

*Votes are represented as the number of legislative district delegates won.
 ** Delegates have yet to be officially allocated. The expected proportional allocation according to Washington Democratic Party rules is shown.

Analysis

- Only 34 of Washington’s 101 pledged delegates at stake were officially allocated immediately after the caucuses. The remaining 64 will be allocated proportionally according to caucus results at the congressional level caucuses and the state convention (May 21st and June 18th respectively.)
- Clinton saw little support across the state, with her best county-level performance being a 20-point loss.

Sanders Wins in Hawaii After High Turnout, Delayed Official Results

Hawaii Dem. Caucus Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	23,530	69.8%	17
	Hillary Clinton	10,125	30.0%	8

Analysis

- Official results from the caucuses were delayed for many hours after Hawaii’s decision against releasing partial results. The first projection came from a crowd-sourced Google-doc which accurately predicted the official outcome within 1 percentage point.
- Heavy turnout is another factor possibly contributing in delayed results, as many sources reported thousands of new members and long lines at some caucus sites.

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Bernie Sanders	567,936	56.5%	47
	Hillary Clinton	432,767	43.1%	36

Analysis

- Nearly 200,000 of the 1 million total votes were cast in Milwaukee county, the state’s most populous and diverse county. Clinton edged out Sanders 52-48.
- While minorities made up less than 20% of primary voters, Clinton won among this group by 14 points.
- Sanders continued to sweep younger voters, scoring over 80% of voters under the age of 30.

Trump Must Capture More Than Half of Remaining Delegates To Clinch Nomination; Kasich Mathematically Cannot Clinch

The Republican Presidential Primary Race Thus Far

■ Donald Trump ■ Ted Cruz ■ John Kasich ■ Marco Rubio

Total Republican Delegates: 2,472
 Delegates Needed to Clinch Nomination: 1,237
 Remaining Delegates: 882

Trump

- Currently has 743 delegates
- Needs to win approx. 56% of remaining delegates to clinch nomination

Cruz

- Currently has 517 delegates
- Needs to win approx. 82% of remaining delegates to clinch nomination

Kasich

- Currently has 143 delegates
- Needs to win approx. 124% of remaining delegates to clinch nomination
- Without adding delegates bound to candidates who have dropped out, it is mathematically impossible for Kasich to win a majority of delegates

- Less likely to support the candidates they are designated to

Analysis

- Because most delegates are neither chosen by candidates nor directly elected, the winner in the first round of voting (likely Trump) will not necessarily have an advantage once delegates become unbounded after the first round of voting
- The GOP rank-and-file has more influence than the establishment in deciding a brokered convention.

Sources: Nate Silver, "Ted Cruz, Not Paul Ryan, Would Probably Win A Contested Convention," FiveThirtyEight, April 6, 2016.

Could a Non-Candidate Win the GOP Nomination?

Potential Brokered Convention Nominees

Paul Ryan

Speaker of the House

Representative from Wisconsin

According to Predictwise, betting markets give Speaker Ryan a 3% chance of winning the nomination. Ryan has denied any interest in the nomination, just as he did the speakership before he accepted the role. Ryan has a high national profile and is popular with the establishment as well as conservative grassroots.

Scott Walker

Governor of Wisconsin

Former Presidential Candidate

Scott Walker first said that in a contested convention the nominee would likely be someone not in the race, before endorsing Ted Cruz who has almost no chance of winning the nomination without a contested convention. Walker has continued to raise money and travel through his fundraising organization.

Mitt Romney

Former Governor of Massachusetts

Former GOP Presidential Nominee

Mitt Romney is the only candidate other than Ryan that Predictwise gives a chance at winning the nomination, with 1%. Romney is a twice failed Presidential candidate, so he is hardly a promising choice, especially amid the anti-establishment political climate.

Marco Rubio

Senator from Florida

Former Presidential Candidate

While Rubio is fresh off an embarrassing defeat by Trump in his native Florida, he does have the advantage of having won a state primary and delegates pledged to him, especially if candidates with no delegates turn out to be ineligible by convention rules.

Why a brokered convention is possible:

The rules of the convention have not yet been set. A panel of 112 party officials will have the power to change the rules of the convention just days before the convention. The rules committee could alter the rules to make a non-candidate eligible.

Why it might not work:

If Trump comes close to winning half of the delegates and the delegates at the convention choose another candidate, the GOP could suffer a backlash from Trump's supporters that would be damaging to the party. Also, many voters may feel alienated by a candidate who no one voted for in a primary election.

	Jeb Bush	5,238	2.8%	1
	Tie (Cruz-Trump)

Analysis

- Rubio fared best in the metropolitan areas of Des Moines and Davenport as well as in Johnson County, home of the University of Iowa.
- Cruz was able to ride to victory on the support of evangelical voters across the state.
- Trump mobilized many first-time caucus goers, however pundits believe he mobilized turnout not only amongst his supporters but also amongst his opposition.

	Jeb Bush	57,863	7.8%	0
	John Kasich	56,206	7.6%	0
	Ben Carson	53,326	7.2%	0

Analysis

- Trump garnered support across both geographic and demographic boundaries, leading in nearly every major exit poll category except college graduates, and voters identifying as 'very conservative'.
- Cruz matched Rubio closely in vote count, however his support was spread broadly across the state leading to no county-level wins.
- Rubio continued his trend of besting Trump in metropolitan areas by winning two of the top-three most populous counties.
- Nearly 22% of the vote was split between the bottom-three candidates. Ben Carson fared best in the evangelical northwest, while Kasich and Bush supporters trended towards the coastal regions in the south and east.

	Ben Carson	8,084	7.2%	0
	John Kasich	6,443	5.8%	0

Analysis

- Rubio scores his first win thanks to powerful 20-point wins in the Minneapolis area.
- Cruz appreciated large support in the Northern areas of the state, and came within 5-points of Rubio in southern areas outside of the Twin Cities.
- Trump struggled across the state, managing only one second place finish in the northeastern "Arrowhead" region.

Trump Manages a Significant Win in Virginia, Rubio Challenges Trump But Falters Outside of Cities

Virginia GOP Primary Results, by County and Municipality

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Donald Trump	356,077	34.7%	17
	Marco Rubio	327,423	31.9%	16
	Ted Cruz	173,360	16.9%	8
	John Kasich	96,677	9.4%	5
	Ben Carson	60,105	5.9%	3

Analysis

- Rubio put up a strong fight in the Virginia suburbs of Washington D.C. as well as in the denser areas of Charlottesville, Williamsburg, and Richmond.
- Trump scored large, decisive wins in both the Blue Ridge to the west and the Eastern Coast, but his major weaknesses in cities exposes a hole in his campaign strategy.
- Votes for Carson, Cruz, and Kasich collectively made up nearly one-third of votes cast, pulling a large portion of votes away from the two front-runners.

	Ted Cruz	113,949	37.8%	18
	Marco Rubio	33,804	11.2%	5
	John Kasich	19,355	6.4%	0

Analysis

- Cruz did exceptionally well in northern and western portions of Louisiana, most likely riding on spillover support from his neighboring home state of Texas.
- Trump won by wide margins in the Southern portions of the state, with large support around New Orleans.
- Rubio struggled to produce double-digit support anywhere outside of New Orleans, reproducing his now established pattern of consolidating his support in cities.

North Carolina GOP Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Donald Trump	458,151	40.2%	29
	Ted Cruz	418,650	36.8%	27
	John Kasich	144,299	12.7%	9
	Marco Rubio	87,858	7.7%	6

Analysis

- Donald Trump won Mecklenberg County, home to Charlotte, with barely a third of the vote as voters were fairly evenly divided between all four candidates.
- Ted Cruz did surprisingly well in the central portions of the state, home to fewer evangelicals and more college graduates than other portions of the state.

Even After Last Week's Chicago Trump Rally Was Cancelled, Trump Wins in Illinois

Illinois GOP Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Donald Trump	548,528	38.8%	49
	Ted Cruz	428,363	30.3%	9
	John Kasich	278,244	19.7%	4
	Marco Rubio	122,206	8.7%	0
	Tie

Analysis

- Donald Trump won in Illinois by a comfortable margin even after his Chicago rally event was cancelled due to violence.
- Trump's victory fits into the general narrative of Trump being able to weather controversies without it significantly affecting his support
- Ted Cruz's strong second-place performance over John Kasich in a Mid-western state reinforces that Ted Cruz's appeal extends outside of the South and he will remain the chief challenger to Donald Trump

Sources: U.S. Census Illinois County Map; The New York Times, "Illinois Primary Results," March 16, 2016; Allan Rappeport, "Donald Trump Wins Illinois," The New York Times, March 15, 2016; CNN, "Illinois Primary Results," March 16, 2016.

Cruz Campaign Eligible for a Recount in Missouri, Primary Decided by Less Than 2000 Votes

Missouri GOP Primary Results, by Congressional District

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates*
	Donald Trump	382,093	40.8%	37
	Ted Cruz	380,367	40.6%	15
	John Kasich	94,533	10.1%	0
	Marco Rubio	57,006	6.1%	0

*Current delegate allocation, may change if a recount is requested.

Delegate Allocation

12 delegates allocated to winner of statewide vote

5 delegates allocated for each congressional-level win

Analysis

- Missouri law states that a recount must be provided at the request of a candidate who has lost by less than half of one percentage point.
- Congressional districts 2, 4, and 5 were all decided by less than one percentage point, less than 550 votes in each case. These three districts each have a reasonable likelihood of flipping during a recount.
- Military and overseas absentee ballots will be counted through Friday and may further affect current results.

Trump Continues to Dominate the GOP Field and Walks Away With a Win in Arizona

Arizona Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Donald Trump	246,543	47.1%	58
	Ted Cruz	129,429	24.7%	0
	John Kasich	52,462	10.0%	0

Analysis

- Due to Arizona’s primary being winner-take-all, Trump walked away with 58 delegates
- Trump’s victory in Arizona was expected after his tough stance on immigration lined up with many of the residents in Arizona

Ted Cruz Wins Utah After Trump Inadvertently Alienates Mormon Community

Utah GOP Caucuses Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Ted Cruz	118,904	69.2%	40
	John Kasich	29,015	16.9%	0
	Donald Trump	23,984	14.0%	0

Analysis

- Many qualities that strengthen Trump’s appeal in other states hurt him deeply amongst Mormons in Utah. From his frequent dirty remarks to his hard stance against immigration, most of Trump’s hallmarks are fundamentally opposite of Mormon history and values.

Sources: Wilson Andres, Matthew Bloch, Jeremy Bowers, and Tim Giratikanon, “Utah Primary Results,” The New York Times, March 23, 2016; The Washington Post “Utah Primary Election Results,” March 23, 2016; Jack Jenkins, “How Donald Trump Could End the Republican Lock on the Mormon Vote,” The Atlantic, March 22, 2016.

Ted Cruz Beats Donald Trump Wisconsin, Reigniting Possibilities of a Contest Convention

Wisconsin GOP Primary Results, by County

Legend	Candidate	Votes	Pct.	Delegates
	Ted Cruz	531,129	48.2%	36
	Donald Trump	386,290	35.1%	6
	John Kasich	155,200	14.1%	-
	Tie (Cruz-Trump)

Analysis

- Donald Trump’s support in the northern and western portions of the state correspond to high populations of lower-income and less educated voters located in these areas.
- Ted Cruz support along the shores of Lake Michigan is notable as this area is more affluent and educated than other portions of the state. Some credit these votes as votes against Donald Trump rather than in support of a Ted Cruz presidency.
- John Kasich did worse than many expected. While his best showing was in the university town of Madison, he failed to escape single digits in many counties.

With Rubio Out, Cruz Leads GOP Endorsement Race

Endorsements From Sitting Reps, Senators and Governors

■ Representative Endorsements   ■ Senator Endorsements   ■ Governor Endorsements

Analysis

- Scott Walker endorsed Ted Cruz ahead of the Wisconsin primary
- With Rubio out of the race, Cruz now leads the field in endorsements, even though many in the GOP establishment despise him
- Since the 1980 Republican Primary, every Republican nominee had the most endorsements at the time they clinched the nomination
- However, with Trump appealing to anti-establishment fervor, it isn't clear that more endorsements will actually help the other candidates

Chapter 6

Issues and Events Impacting the Election

---

Supreme Court Cases and Presidential Actions Helped Define the Major Issues for 2016 Presidential Election

Timeline of Events Affecting the 2016 Election

- June 2015 ○ (King v. Burwell) Decision
 The Supreme Court ruled to uphold federal subsidies for all eligible Americans under the Affordable Care Act. This effectively upheld the ACA’s constitutionality making its repeal a major rallying cry for Republican presidential candidates. For Democratic candidates, especially Hillary Clinton, preserving and championing the ACA took on added significance.
- June 2015 ○ (Obergefell v. Hodges) Decision
 The Supreme Court ruled the 14th amendment required all states to grant and honor same-sex marriage licenses. The decision brought the issue to the fore within the Republican primary causing social issues to become a major criteria when vetting candidates.
- June 2015 ○ Congress Approved and Obama Signed Trade Promotion Authority for Trans-Pacific Partnership
 Congress granted Obama authority to negotiate the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) without Congressional amendment. Democratic candidates denounced TPP as undermining U.S. labor with Republicans split over the issue. Establishment candidates largely favored the deal while outsider candidates like Trump and Cruz considered it bad for the economy.
- July 2015 ○ The Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA) was Announced
 The JCPOA or the “Iran Deal”, was announced and Republicans quickly lambasted it. For Republicans, it provided a contrast on how they would be a stronger commander-in-chief than Democrats. For Democrats, the deal was seen as evidence of their prudence and measured leadership contrasted with the Republican’s hot-headedness.
- Aug 2015 ○ Obama Announced Finalized Clean Power Plan
 President Obama announced the Clean Power Plan, which empowered the EPA to regulate carbon emissions. Democrat candidates largely supported the measure seeing it as a critical step to combating climate change. Republican candidates viewed the plan as imposing burdensome regulations upon states, which would adversely impact the economy.

National Security Became One of the Top Issues Towards the End of 2015 Due to Syria and Terrorism

Timeline of Events Affecting the 2016 Election

- Sep 2015 ○ Russia Entered Syria and Began Air Campaign to Support Syrian Dictator Bashar al-Assad
Russian airplanes and ground troops entered Syria to support Syrian leader Bashar al-Assad. Further questions about U.S. Middle Eastern strategy were discussed in the presidential debate, especially on the Republican side. Republicans used Russian presence as an example of continued U.S. weakness under Obama.
- Oct 2015 ○ Obama Announced U.S. Ground Troops in Syria
A rift began to appear between Democratic candidates on national security with Hillary Clinton largely supportive of Obama's Syria strategy while Bernie Sanders wanted all U.S. troop withdrawn from Syria. A similar rift emerged in the Republican campaign with most Republicans calling for a more "muscular" strategy with an increased troop presence, while others called for the U.S. to embrace a less "interventionist" foreign policy in the Middle East.
- Nov 2015 ○ Paris Terrorist Attack
ISIL operatives killed 130 people and caused widespread panic across France. National security became a top concern amongst voters, especially Republicans. Republican candidates called into question the vetting process for Syrians and Iraqis entering the U.S. causing a major discussion about whether the U.S. should be letting in Syrians or Iraqis at all. Democrats tried to differentiate themselves as the more welcoming party and painted Republicans as fear-mongering.
- Dec 2015 ○ San Bernardino Terrorist Attack
Two gunmen, who were a couple, attacked a social services clinic killing 14 and injuring 22 people. One of the perpetrators, Tashfeen Malik, was a Pakistani immigrant and a permanent legal resident. Her immigrant status made fears over Middle Eastern immigrants more acutely felt and made terrorism the dominant topic in the national conversation.

Justice Antonin Scalia’s Unexpected Death Has Put Added Significance onto the 2016 Presidential Election

Timeline of Events Affecting the 2016 Election

- Jan 2016

U.S. and Iran Prisoner Exchange

U.S. and Iran exchanged prisoners resulting in five U.S. prisoners being released. Four returned to the U.S. and one remained in Tehran. Democratic candidates pointed to the exchanges as proving that diplomacy could produce results without the need for military intimidation. Republican candidates pushed back against this sentiment pointing to an incident where Iran held U.S. sailors hostage, albeit temporarily.
- Feb 2016

Some of Hillary Clinton’s Emails Were Marked As Classified

Some of Hillary Clinton’s emails from her time as Secretary of State were retroactively labeled as containing classified information. Republican candidates pointed to this as showing how reckless Clinton was and how she cannot be trusted to handle sensitive information. The Democratic candidates continued to consider the email a smear campaign with Clinton arguing major Republican officials like Colin Powell and Condoleezza Rice used a similar private email server while handling retroactively classified material.
- Feb 2016

Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia Died

On February 13th, Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia died. A discussion began on whether Obama should appoint a new Supreme Court justice or whether it should wait until the next president. Consequently, the presidential election took on added significance as the winner was seen as the one who would appoint Scalia’s successor and determine if the court would have a liberal or conservative majority.

Clinton Supports Gun Control to Prevent Gun Violence; Trump Wants to Protect the Second Amendment

Comparison of Clinton’s and Trump’s Gun Violence Plans

	Hillary Clinton’s Proposals	Donald Trump’s Proposals
Background Checks	Comprehensive background checks; Close Charleston loophole that allows gun sales to proceed if background check not completed within 3 days	Fix, but do not expand, background check system – states should put criminal and mental health records into the system
Mental Health	Close loopholes that allow people with severe mental illnesses to purchase and possess guns	Expand mental health treatment programs
Federal Crimes	Make straw-purchasing a federal crime	Bring back Project Exile – Felons committing violent crimes involving firearms are prosecuted federally and go to prison for 5 years with no parole or early release
Gun bans	Prohibit the sale of assault weapons	No bans on any kind of guns

Analysis

- Though Sanders’ view on nearly every policy issue falls on the far left, the one exception is gun control, as he represents a state with a deep hunting and gun culture. However, he has announced support for a few measures to curb gun violence and also emphasizes the importance of addressing mental health issues
- Sanders’ campaign has yet to release a gun control plan, despite promising to do so in October 2015 in the wake of several mass shootings
