

Angie Bryan

State Department Vice President

A Senior Foreign Service officer with over 23 years in the Foreign Service, Angie Bryan began her term of elected office as AFSA State Vice President on July 15, 2015. A native Houstonian, Angie joined the Foreign Service in 1992 shortly after graduating from Trinity University in San Antonio with BAs in International Studies and Political Science, as well as a minor in French. Her first tour was in Kuwait, followed by Damascus and Algiers. She then returned to the Department as the Staff Assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State for South Asian Affairs before heading to Lahore as Deputy Principal Officer.

On 9/11 Angie was serving in Islamabad as the Afghan watcher. From Islamabad she moved to Kabul and later served as Acting Principal Officer in Peshawar before returning to Islamabad as Refugee Coordinator. She then headed to France as Principal Officer at the American Presence Post in Lyon; she also did brief stints as Acting Principal Officer in both Strasbourg and Marseille. After three years in Yemen as DCM and a tour in Stockholm as the Political-Economic Counselor, she returned to the United States in August 2014 to serve as an Assessor with the Board of Examiners.

In addition to speaking French and Swedish, in 2000 Angie was awarded the Sinclair Language Award for Urdu. She speaks rusty Arabic and has also studied Chinese, Dari, Japanese, Latin, and Pashto with wildly varying amounts of success. A Truman Scholar, Angie is also an active Rotarian who enjoys non-competitive powerlifting. Before joining the Foreign Service, she was one of the National Council on U.S.-Arab Relations' Malcolm H. Kerr Scholars in Jordan and interned with the Peace Corps in Morocco; she also studied in the UK on a British American Educational Foundation scholarship.
